Hi Tim,

I have uploaded 2 new word documents in the B&R NM Folder for grazing and mining. This information was taken from the internal draft analysis of the management situation for the B&R NM.

Lee Kirk has already provided you with the Gold Butte NM grazing info. I am not aware of the mining situation in this area but I believe it's minimal.

I am currently looking for additional recreation visitation information in RMIS to provide you regarding both NV NMs but I do not have any additional numbers to share. Both areas were formerly just counted under other large dispersed areas and I have no idea how many of the visitors to the dispersed areas were actually recreating in the areas now designated as National Monument(s).

Alicia and Lee may have different or additional information to provide you tomorrow.

Additional Potential Questions

Sorry about this, but this came from DOI late yesterday. You may have already addressed in your monument review, but if not can you look over these questions and address for the appropriate monuments under review.

Are there mines or processing facilities near or adjacent to a National Monument?

If it is a mine or mineral processing facility, they would like some information on:

1. the extent to which activities on the monument (pre and post designation) affected the facility;
2. the type of minerals processed;
3. the permitting entity;
4. and scale of activity.

Again sorry for these broad scale questions so quickly after the deadline, but as I mentioned on the phone there were a number of follow-up questions from the Utah NM Review, but most were specific to those monuments. Then we get some general questions and some they want more information on and others not.

My apologies for adding on to a heavy lift but if you can address in a word document and add to the folders I am much appreciative.

Thanks,

Timothy J Fisher, Program Lead
